The following message was received from the house of representatives by their clerk :

Mr. President :

The house of representatives are now ready to meet the honorable senate in convention, for the purpose of proceeding to the elections agreeably to the provisions of the constitution.

On motion of Mr. Sanborn of No. 6, the senate met the house in convention.

(See house proceedings.)

Gove, having been respectively elected senators from districts Nos. 2, 5, 7 and 8, in convention of the senators elect and the house of representatives, and having accepted the offices, and severally taken and subscribed the oaths of office and been duly qualified, appeared and took seats in the senate.

The following resolution, presented by Mr. Sanborn of No. 6, was adopted :

Resolved, That Hon. William H. Gove be declared elected president of the senate, Thomas J. Smith clerk, Charles A. Jewell assistant clerk and Dudley P. Evans door-keeper, to serve in said respective positions for the ensuing political year.

The chair appointed Messrs. Sanborn of No. 6 and Stowell of No. 10 to conduct the president to the chair.

The president having taken the chair addressed the senate as follows :

Senators :

Please accept my thanks for this manifestation of your confidence and kindness, and allow me to assure you that one of the most important considerations, inducing me to assume the responsibilities of the position to which you have assigned me, is the conviction that I shall have your cordial sympathy and assistance in the performance of its duties.

In conformity with a custom which, perhaps, in the present instance might be "more honored in the breach than in the observance," you will pardon me if I trespass for a few moments upon your time in the expression of sentiments in relation to the rule of action, which, in my opinion, should guide us in the performance of our duties as senators. However earnest we may be in our partisan convictions, however sharp may have been our contests of opinions with our fellow citizens, and however much we may differ upon matters of policy, we cannot forget that in our present position we have become the representatives of the whole people; and that the obligations we now assume demand our best service for the general welfare of the state.

If, upon examination, we shall find our statutes encumbered with enactments prejudicial to the public interest, and which infringe upon the just rights of the people, tending to the overthrow of their prerogative to be fully and equally represented in the government of the state, it will undoubtedly become our privilege and our duty to replace such enactments with laws founded in equal justice, and which will unmistakably vindicate the doctrine that a majority of the people of New Hampshire are entitled, under the forms of the constitution, to the management and control of the government.

There can be no doubt that a multitude of crude, ill-digested laws, doubtful in their construction, special in their objects, hastily considered, framed in the interests of individuals or corporations, are often prolific sources of vexatious litigation and partial privileges, and in many instances mischievous instruments of injustice. Laws should exist for the benefit of the whole. They should be as general in the restraints they impose as in the privileges they grant, and while they infringe upon the proper liberties of none, they should protect the rights of all. Such laws, simply constructed, carefully considered, meaning no more and no less than appears upon the record, embracing in their provisions nothing outside of the legitimate purposes of government, would obviate, to a great extent, the expense of time and money spent in the consideration of private and special legislation.

The actual necessary expenses of the state should be met by a system of just and equal taxation upon the people; and the startling developments of the last few years, both in the administration of state and national finances, the great abuses which have grown out of the habit of appropriations for objects not strictly necessary for the purposes of government, have been such that it became a matter of grave doubt whether the whole practice should not be overturned, and all legislative appropriations be strictly confined to the actual expenses of the government as defined by the constitution and the well established precedents of earlier times.

Having full confidence that we shall address ourselves to the performance of our duties with a determination to occupy as little time as is consistent with careful deliberation upon such matters as shall require our consideration, and that our action will be such that the state shall at least receive no detriment at our hands, thanking you again for the honor you have seen fit to confer upon me, I wait for the action of the senate.

Thomas J. Smith and Charles A. Jewell thereupon appeared, signified their acceptance of the offices to which they had been elected, and were duly sworn to the faithful discharge of the duties thereof.

Attest:

Upon which the president assumed the chair and addressed the senate as follows :

SENATORS: I should ill requite your generosity if I failed to appreciate the words of kindness towards myself, expressed in the language of the resolution just adopted by this body. I should be untrue to myself and unjust to you if I did not take this occasion to say, that during all the time we have been associated here, I recollect no instance where anything has occurred to mar the pleasure of our social intercourse, and if I did not also acknowledge, with extreme gratitude, your uniform and constant courtesy to myself, only equaled by your unwearied observance, in all your relations with each other, of the teaching of that high culture which should always characterize the intercourse of gentlemen. As few of us as there are it is to me a sad reflection that it is hardly within the limits of human probability that we shall all ever meet together again. Some of us will remember that, only twelve months ago, this chair was occupied by one of our number, who has since passed away beyond the boundaries of this life, who has Gone out upon that boundless sea

Whose tides are ever from the shore,
Where voyagers pass beyond the reach
Of mortal eyes forevermore.

His genial character as a friend, his upright life as a man, his generous nature as an associate, will be forgotten last by those who knew him best.

And now as we are about to close the work of this session, as we are about to go out from this chamber and resume our various ways in life, allow me to express the hope that those at whose bidding we have occupied these places, will be satisfied with the manner of the performance of our duties; that, among the pleasant recollections of after years, we may reckon the approbation of those whose interests we have endeavored to represent, and that to each one of you may come in the future, peace, prosperity and happiness.

Mr. Pierce of No. 7 moved the adoption of the following resolution:

Resolved, That the thanks of the senate be presented to Thomas J. Smith, clerk of the senate, and Charles A. Jewell, assistant clerk, and to Dudley P. Evans, door-keeper, for the very courteous, faithful and efficient manner in which they have discharged their duties during the present session.

2. No member shall hold conversation with another during the reading of the journal, or while a member is speaking in debate.

3. Every member, rising to speak, shall address the president, and when he has finished shall sit down.

4. No member shall speak more than twice on the same question, on the same day, without leave of the senate.

5. More than one member rising to speak at the same time, the president shall decide who shall speak first.

6. If any member transgress the rules of the senate, the president shall, or any member may, call him to order,—in which case the member so called to order shall sit down, and the senate, if appealed to, shall decide in the case; but if there be no appeal, the decision of the president shall be conclusive.

7. No member shall absent himself, without permission from the senate.

8. A motion shall be seconded before it is debated, and if required by the president, or any other member, it shall be reduced to writing.

9. When a question is under debate, no motion shall be received but to adjourn, to postpone indefinitely, to lay on the table, to postpone to a certain day, to commit, or to amend, which several motions shall take precedence in the order in which they are arranged. And no motion to postpone indefinitely, to postpone to a certain day, or to commit, being decided, shall be in order at the same stage of the bill or proposition, until after an adjournment.

10. If the question under debate will admit of division, any member may have it divided, and in filling blanks the longest time and the largest sum shall be put first.

11. When the reading of a paper is called for, and the same is objected to, it shall be decided by a vote of the senate, and without debate.

12. When the yeas and nays are required, each member shall declare his assent or dissent to the question, unless, for special reasons, he be excused by the senate.

13. When a motion is made to shut the doors of the senate, on the discussion of any business which, in the opinion of any member, may require secrecy, the president shall desire the gallery to be closed, and the doors shall remain closed until the subject is disposed of.

14. After a motion has been decided, it shall be in order for any member who voted with the majority, or, if the senate be equally divided, any member voting on the side prevailing, to move for reconsideration thereof, unless the bill, resolution, report, amendment, or motion on which the vote was taken, has gone from the possession of the senate; but no motion to reconsider shall be in order unless made the same day on which the vote was taken, or the next day after on which the vote was taken, on which the senate shall be in session; but no vote shall be reconsidered when a less number of members is present than when it passed.

15. Before any petition or memorial, addressed to the senate, shall be received and read, a brief statement of the contents thereof shall be made by the member introducing the same.

21. The senate may resolve itself into a committee of the whole at any time, on motion made for that purpose; and, in forming a committee of the whole, the president shall leave the chair, and appoint a chairman to preside in committee. The president may at any time name any member to perform the duties of the chair, but such substitution shall not extend beyond an adjournment.

22. The last question upon the second reading of a bill or resolution, shall always be, Shall it be read a third time? and no amendment shall be received or discussed on the third reading of any bill or resolution, unless by consent of eight members present; but it shall at all times be in order, before the final passage of a bill or resolution, to move its commitment; and should such commitment take place, and an amendment be reported, the bill or resolution shall again be read a second time, and considered as in committee of the whole.

23. The titles of bills, and such parts thereof as may be affected by proposed amendments, shall be entered on the journals.

24. All bills, resolutions, and addresses, after passing the senate, shall be signed by the president; and all warrants and other processes, issued by order of the senate, shall be under his hand and seal, attested by the clerk.

30. All questions shall be put by the president, and each member of the senate shall signify his assent or dissent by answering yea or nay. If the president doubts, or a division is called for, the senate shall divide. Those in the affirmative of the question shall first rise from their seats, and stand till they be counted; and afterward those in the negative shall rise and stand till they be counted. The president shall then rise and state the decision of the senate.

31. No person, except the members of the executive, or members of the house of representatives and its officers, shall be admitted within the bar of the senate, except by invitation of the president, or some member with his consent.

32. The senate shall adjourn to meet at ten o'clock in the morning, and three o'clock in the afternoon of each day, unless the senate shall otherwise order.

33. Motions to adjourn shall be decided without debate.

After administering the constitutional oaths, His Excellency the Governor, attended by the Honorable Council and Secretary of State, withdrew from the representatives' hall.

The house was then called to order by S. C. Clark, clerk.

On motion of Mr. Burrows of Plymouth, Edwin C. Bailey of Hopkinton was elected temporary chairman, and the clerk appointed Messrs. Burrows of Plymouth and Lyman of Exeter a committee to conduct him to the chair.

The temporary chairman having taken the chair,

On motion of Mr. Bingham of Littleton, the house proceeded to the election of speaker by ballot, with the following result :

Whole number of votes cast,	. . .	339
Necessary to a choice,	176
James W. Emery had	163
Albert R. Hatch had	176

and Albert R. Hatch, having a majority of all the votes cast, was declared elected speaker.

Messrs. Bingham of Littleton, Emery of Portsmouth and Blodgett of Franklin were appointed a committee to conduct the speaker elect to the chair.

On assuming the chair, the speaker addressed the house as follows :

GENTLEMEN : I thank you for the honor you have conferred upon me. I am aware that the duties of the office are simply to aid you in the orderly management of your deliberations, and in the final expression of your will. My personal acquaintance with you, and knowledge of the traditional dignity and courtesy of the legislature of New Hampshire, assure me that the task you have imposed must be both easy and pleasant ; yet I should shrink from the responsibility were I not confident that your liberal indulgence will be extended to me, and that I shall have your active and cordial co-operation in every effort to bring the business of the session to a speedy and satisfactory conclusion.

It is not for me to attempt to suggest to you the proper subjects for legislation, nor the manner in which your important duties shall be performed. But we are ever to remember that our whole power is derived from the people, and it is limited to the expression of their will. We cannot effectually origi- nate laws: we can only give form and record to those which exist in the will of the people. Every enactment which has not, or does not, receive the great sanction of the popular approbation must be a dead letter upon the statute book, and a disgrace to the legislators who enacted it.

I think it safe to assume that wise and moderate legislation, looking only to the public good, and disregarding alike the schemes of the selfish and the dreams of idle theorizers, will be found to be an expression of the real sentiment of an enlightened community. But when that sentiment is ascertained, the voice of the people, when clearly, calmly and deliberately expressed, will always be a safe guide and a more exact rule of right than any other, except the revealed will of God Himself. And I trust and believe that in seeking honestly to express the judgment of the people, we shall have the guidance of Him "who maketh men to be of one mind in an house," and who ruleth the hearts of all the nations of the earth.

Gentlemen: the framers of our constitution wisely apporportioned the house of representatives so that every town and precinct shall have its delegate here. The inconveniences of a large assembly have been deliberately submitted to, that every man in New Hampshire may have in the legislature some representative with whom he is personally acquainted. The wisdom which gave to our state government this near approach to a pure democracy, will influence us to listen attentively to every grievance and every expression of the public sentiment from however obscure or humble a source it may come.

Gentlemen: in expressing the hope that your session may be harmonious and pleasant, and that your legislation may be wise and pure, I am sure that I have the unanimous approval of the house. I trust that my earnest request for your forbearance and aid in the performance of the responsible duties of the office to which you have elected me will receive an equally unanimous and hearty response.

On motion of Mr. Kent of Portsmouth,

Resolved, That Charles H. Smith of Newmarket, and John B. Mills of Manchester be elected clerk and assistant clerk of the house of representatives for the ensuing year.

On motion of Mr. Burrows of Plymouth,

Resolved, That James M. Burnham of Hopkinton, Dennison Currier of Enfield, and Oscar G. Farmer of Manchester be elected door-keepers of the house for the ensuing year.

On motion of Mr. Sulloway of Franklin,

Resolved, That a committee of one from each county be appointed to nominate a candidate for chaplain for the present session.

On motion of Mr. Murphy of Dover,

Resolved, That Clark F. Rowell of Keene be elected sergeant-at-arms of the house of representatives for the ensuing year.

On motion of Mr. Sanborn of Franklin,

Resolved, That the rules of the house for the last session be the rules of the house for the present session, until otherwise ordered by the house.

Mr. Burrows of Plymouth moved that the members of the house do now proceed to draw seats; and the question being stated, the motion did not prevail.

A division being called for,

Mr. Lyman of Exeter moved that the house adjourn, to meet at three o'clock this afternoon; and the motion prevailed.

AFTERNOON.

The house met at three o'clock, agreeably to adjournment.

(The speaker in the chair.)

Charles H. Smith, clerk elect, and John B. Mills, assistant clerk, appeared and were respectively qualified for said offices by taking the oaths prescribed by law.

A true record.

Attest:

S. C. CLARK, Clerk.

The house resumed the consideration of the unfinished business of the morning, the question being on the passage of the motion of Mr. Burrows of Plymouth.

The question being stated, the motion prevailed, and the members drew seats accordingly.

Clark F. Rowell of Keene appeared, and was qualified as sergeant-at-arms by taking the oath of office.

James M. Burnham of Hopkinton, Dennison Currier of Enfield, and Oscar G. Farmer of Manchester appeared and severally took the oath of office as door-keepers.

And 110 members having voted in the affirmative and 154 members in the negative, the house refused to lay the unfinished business on the table.

At the conclusion of the call for the yeas and nays, and before the result of the vote was announced, Mr. Hall of Dover asked to be excused from voting because he did not sufficiently understand the subject to vote intelligently.

Mr. Jenks of Concord moved that Mr. Hall be excused from voting, and on this question demanded the yeas and nays.

Mr. Roles of Ossipee called for the reading of the 24th rule of the house, and claimed that the special reason there referred to must be a valid reason, and that the chair must first decide on its sufficiency before putting the question to the house.

Mr. Hall of Dover spoke on the point raised by Mr. Roles, when the speaker called him to order. Mr. Hall continuing his remarks, the speaker ordered the sergeant-at-arms to remove him unless he became quiet. Mr. Hall took his seat, when Mr. Emery called for the ruling of the chair on the point raised by Mr. Roles.

Mr. Roles arose, when Mr. Sanborn of Franklin rose to a point of order, that no member could speak twice upon a question of order.

The speaker decided that the point of order was not well taken, and recognized Mr. Roles of Ossipee, who introduced resolution, which was declared out of order.

Mr. Blodgett of Franklin moved that the house adjourn.

The speaker ruled that, as the call of the yeas and nays had not been completed, the motion to adjourn could not be entertained.

Upon the point of order raised by Mr. Roles, the chair ruled that the special reason referred to in the 24th rule of the house could not be merely evasive, and intended only for delay, but must be a substantial reason, such as consciousness of interest or bias. The chair further ruled that the speaker was to decide whether the excuse assigned by a member as a reason for not voting was substantial or evasive, and intended as a subterfuge, and that the excuse given by Mr. Hall did not appear to the chair sufficient.

Mr. Emery of Portsmouth asked if the ruling of the chair was in harmony with the ruling of the speaker of the house in 1871.

The speaker answered that the ruling of the session of 1871 was at first different, but that the speaker of that year finally announced the ruling which had just been made.

Mr. Kent of Portsmouth appealed from the decision, but the chair declined to entertain the appeal and directed the clerk to call the name of Mr. Hall of Dover. The name was called but no response was given.

Mr. Hall of Dover arose to speak, but the chair declared him out of order, and Mr. Hall continuing to speak, the chair ordered the sergeant-at-arms to remove him. Mr. Hall took his seat, and the speaker directed the clerk to call again the name of Mr. Hall. The name was called, but no response was given, and the vote as before recorded was announced.

On motion of Mr. Blodgett of Franklin, the house adjourned.

FRIDAY, JUNE 26, 1874.

The house met at ten o'clock in the forenoon.

(The speaker in the chair.)

Prayer was offered by the chaplain.

The reading of the journal was commenced, when, on motion of Mr. Kent of Portsmouth, the rules were suspended so that the call of yeas and nays was omitted.

On motion of Mr. Kent of Portsmouth,

Resolved, That the thanks of this house be, and hereby are, tendered to the Hon. Albert R. Hatch, for the ability, impartiality and courtesy with which he has discharged the duties of speaker during the present session.

The speaker, having resumed the chair, addressed the house as follows :

Gentlemen of the House of Representatives :

I am very grateful to you for this flattering expression of your good will. But I apprehend that it is rather my thanks which are due to the house for the kindness and courtesy which alone have enabled me to perform the duties of the honorable station to which your favor promoted me. Your indulgence has overlooked the faults and corrected the errors which must inevitably have arisen from my want of preparation and lack of experience in the important duties of the chair. I can claim no merit but an earnest intention to do everything which the place has required, impartially, faithfully and justly.

The close observation of the house which my official acquaintance with you has required, has been exceedingly agreeable, and has tended to raise my state pride to a very high degree. The uniform courtesy and unbroken decorum of your deliberations have been accompanied by such diligence in the public business, and dignity in its performance, as I have never seen equaled in any deliberative body. And for ability, education and personal character, I would proudly compare the legislature of New Hampshire with almost any other in the world.

It is natural that the members of such a body should entertain various and conflicting opinions and divide into parties upon measures of public importance. But I am sure that beneath all, and controlling all differences, a sincere desire to promote the public good, and an honest allegiance to the real interests of the state, animate the heart of every member of the house. And the reflection that it is chiefly in matters of administration that we differ, and that upon the great principles of government and of democratic republican liberty, and in the ordering of the most important and the greater part of the business and affairs of the state, we are all agreed, should tend to soften the asperities of party zeal and lessen our estimate of the importance of party success.

Gentlemen, I believe that the personal acquaintance formed here by the leading and representative men of all parts of the state, will not be among the least of the benefits of this session. Opinions upon many subjects not discussed in the house have been compared, errors and false estimates of character corrected, and valuable information acquired, which cannot fail to be lastingly useful to you and the people of the state. As we know each other better I trust we shall become more united, that sectional jealousies will be prevented, and that the feeling of love for our state and pride in her history, her institutions, and her people, may gain new fervor.

Gentlemen, I wish you a happy return to your homes; and that the kind Providence which has preserved you here may protect you and give you prosperity forever.

On motion of Mr. Lyman of Exeter,

Resolved, That the thanks of this house be tendered to the chaplain, clerk, assistant clerk, sergeant-at-arms, door-keepers and pages, for the faithful and courteous discharge of the duties devolving upon them, during the present session, and that the house express its obligation to the several reporters for their accurate and satisfactory reports of the legislative proceedings.

On motion of Mr. Lyman of Exeter, the house took a recess until nine o'clock.

The house having come to order, on motion of Mr. Blodgett of Franklin,

Resolved, That a committee of six be appointed on the part of the house, with such as the senate may join, to wait upon His Excellency the Governor, and inform him that the legislature have completed the business of the session, and are ready to receive any communication he may be pleased to make.

The speaker shall then rise and state the decision of the house.

4. He shall rise to put a question, but may state it sitting.

5. All committees shall be appointed by the speaker, unless otherwise directed by the house.

6. The speaker shall designate to which of the standing committees all memorials, petitions, accounts, or other matters, shall be referred, unless otherwise ordered by the house.

7. The speaker shall vote in no case unless the house be equally divided, or unless his vote if given to the minority, will make the division equal; and in case of such equal division the question shall be lost.

8. All acts, addresses and joint resolutions shall be signed by the speaker; and all writs, warrants or subpœnas, issued by order of the house, shall be under his hand and seal, attested by the clerk.

9. In case of any disturbance or disorderly conduct in the galleries, the speaker, or chairman of the committee of the whole house, shall have the power to order the same to be cleared.

10. No person but the members and officers of the house, members of the council, and members of the senate, the secretary of the state, treasurer, and clerks of the senate, shall be admitted within the door of the representatives' chamber, unless by invitation of the speaker, or some member of the house with the consent of the speaker, except in public hearings, parties, their counsel and witnesses, under the direction of the speaker.

11. The speaker shall have power to substitute any member to perform the duties of the chair, such substitution not to extend beyond an adjournment.

OF DECORUM AND DEBATE.

12. When any member is about to speak in debate, or deliver any matter to the house, he shall rise from his seat, and respectfully address himself to the speaker.

13. If any member transgress the rules of the house, the speaker shall, or any member may, call him to order; in which case the member so called to order shall immediately sit down, and the question of order shall then be distinctly stated from the chair; and in all cases where a member shall be called to order for uttering disrespectful words, upon the request of any member the words objected to shall be reduced to writing by the member so calling to order; after which the member so called to order may explain, and the question shall be open to debate, as in other cases, and decided by the speaker, whose decision shall be submitted to, unless an appeal be made to the house by a member, in which case the only question shall be, "Is the speaker's decision correct?" which shall be decided without debate. If the decision be in favor of the member called to order, he may proceed; if otherwise, and the case may require it, he shall be liable to the censure of the house.

14. In all cases the member first rising shall speak first.

When two members rise at the same time, the speaker shall name the person to speak.

15. No member shall speak more than twice on the same question, without leave of the house; nor more than once, until every member choosing to speak shall have spoken.

16. While the speaker is putting any question, or addressing the house, no one shall walk out of or across the house; nor in such case, or when a member is speaking, shall entertain private discourse; nor, while a member is speaking, shall pass between him and the chair; nor shall any member leave his seat while the yeas and nays are calling.

17. No member shall vote on any question in the event of which he is directly interested; or in any case where he was not present when the question was put; nor sit upon any committee when he is directly interested in the question under consideration. In case of such interest of a member of a committee, the fact shall be reported to the house, and another person substituted on that question in his place.

18. Every member who shall be in the house when a question is put shall give his vote, unless the house, for special reason, shall excuse him.

19. No motion shall be debated until the same shall be seconded and stated from the chair; and when a motion shall be made and seconded, it shall be reduced to writing, if desired by the speaker or any member, and delivered in at the table, and read by the speaker, before the same shall be debated.

20. No petition shall be received by the house, unless it be presented by a member thereof, and upon motion made for that purpose; nor until the substance of said petition be concisely minuted, and the name of the member, and the town he represents, recorded upon the back thereof; and it shall be the duty of the speaker, whenever any motion relative to a petition is to be stated to the house, to state, in the first place, the substance of the petition, as minuted on the back thereof.

21. After a motion is stated by the speaker it shall be in possession of the house, but may be withdrawn at any time before an amendment.

22. When any question is under debate, no motion shall be received, but, 1st, to adjourn; 2d, to lay on the table; 3d, for the previous question ; 4th, to postpone indefinitely ; 5th, to postpone to a certain day ; 6th, to commit ; and, 7th, to amend, which several motions shall have precedence in the order in which they are arranged. Motions to adjourn, to lay on the table, and take from the table, shall be decided without debate.

23. The speaker shall put the previous question in the following form : “ Shall the main question be now put? ” and all debate upon the main question shall be suspended until the previous question has been decided. After the adoption of the previous question the sense of the house shall forthwith be taken upon pending amendments, in their regular order, and then upon the main question.

24. On the previous question no member shall speak more than once without leave, and all incidental questions of order, arising after a motion for the previous question, shall be decided without debate, excepting on appeal, and on such appeal no member shall be allowed to speak more than once without leave of the house.

25. If the previous question is decided in the negative, it shall not be again in order till after an adjournment, but the main question shall be left before the house, and disposed of as though the previous question had not been put.

26. When a question is postponed indefinitely, the same shall not be acted upon during the session.

27. Any member may call for a division of the question, when the sense will admit of it ; and upon a motion to amend, a refusal to strike out words shall neither preclude amendment to such words, nor a motion to strike out and insert.

28. A motion for commitment, until it is decided, shall preclude all amendment to the main question, and all motions and reports may be committed at the pleasure of the house.

29. No new motion shall be admitted, under color of amendment, as a substitute for the motion under debate.

30. No vote shall be reconsidered, unless the motion for reconsideration be made by a member who voted with the majority, nor unless the notice of such motion be given on the same day on which the vote passed, or on the next day on which the house shall be in session, between the hours of ten and twelve o'clock.

31. When the reading of a paper is called for and objected to by any member, it shall be determined by a vote of the house.

32. Any member may excuse himself from serving on any committee at the time of his appointment, if he is then a member of two other committees, who have not reported.

33. Each member shall seasonably and punctually attend to his duty in the house, and no one shall absent himself from the service of the house unless he have leave, or be sick and unable to attend.

34. The speaker shall appoint a sergeant-at-arms, whenever it may be necessary to execute the commands of the house and process issued by its authority. And he shall also appoint a teller for each division of the house, whose duty it shall be to report to the chair the state of the vote, whenever a division of the house is called for.

every application for an act of incorporation referred to them, they shall inquire whether the object of the applicants may not be conveniently obtained by voluntary incorporation under the general laws of the state, and they shall report accordingly.

It shall be the duty of the committee on the reform school to examine in relation to the rules and government of the institution, and all matters of general interest connected therewith, and all such matters as may be referred to them by the house, and make such report, either by bill or otherwise, as they think the interest of the state requires.

It shall be the duty of the committee on bills on the second reading to take into consideration all bills on the second reading that may be committed or otherwise, and to make such report thereon as they may think expedient.

It shall be the duty of the committee on printers' accounts to examine and adjust all accounts against the state for printing, and every subject relating to such accounts that may be referred to them by the house, and to report thereon.

It shall be the duty of the committee on military accounts to examine, adjust and report on all accounts relative to the militia, that may be referred to them by the house.

It shall be the duty of the committee on claims to audit, adjust and report on all accounts and claims that may be presented for allowance, except accounts for printing, military accounts, and accounts for engrossing bills.

36. All other committees shall consist of three members, unless otherwise ordered.

37. The standing committees shall attend at their respective committee rooms, two hours before the meeting of the house in the morning, and at such other times as the house shall order; and no committee shall sit during the sitting of the house, unless when the speaker shall consider it necessary.

38. The first named member of any committee appointed by the speaker of the house shall be chairman; and in case of his absence, or being excused by the house, the next named member, and so on, as often as the case may happen, unless the committee, by a majority of the number, elect a chairman. And when any committee shall report otherwise than by bill, they shall, if the subject admit of it, subjoin to their report a resolution, making such disposition of the matter committed to them as to the committee shall seem expedient.

39. Whenever it shall not be convenient for any standing committee to attend promptly to all the business which may be properly referred to it, the speaker may, on a vote of the house to that effect, appoint an additional committee on the same subject, to consist of the same number of members as the original committee, whose duty it shall be to take into consideration all matters in relation to that subject which shall be referred to them by the house, and to report thereon.

ON BILLS.

40. Every bill and joint resolution shall be introduced by motion for leave, or by an order of the house on the report of a committee; and no bill or joint resolution shall be introduced by any member (except on the report of a committee) unless he shall have given at least one day's notice of intention, and of the object of the bill or joint resolution to be introduced.

41. Every bill and resolution originally introduced into the house shall be expressed in words clearly, so that it shall not be necessary to refer to any other act or statute to ascertain the meaning thereof.

42. Every bill shall have three several readings in the house previous to its passage; the first reading shall be for information; and thereupon, when the bill shall have been introduced by a committee, if not rejected or otherwise disposed of, a time shall be assigned for a second reading; and upon the second reading, if not rejected or otherwise disposed of by the house, a time shall be assigned for a third reading. When a bill shall have been introduced by a member upon leave, or by message from the senate, and read a first time, if it be not rejected or otherwise disposed of by the house, the question shall be, "Shall the bill be read a second time?" And if ordered to a second reading, it shall immediately be read a second time by its title, and be by the speaker referred to the appropriate standing committee, unless otherwise ordered by the house. No bill, after it has been read a second time, shall have a third reading until after an adjournment. The time assigned for the second and third readings of bills and resolutions shall be eleven o'clock in the forenoon and three o'clock in the afternoon, unless otherwise ordered by the house.

43. No amendment shall be made but upon the second reading of a bill or joint resolution, and all resolutions shall be in writing, with the name of the member and the town he represents on the back thereof. The orders of the day for the reading of bills and joint resolutions shall hold for every succeeding day, until disposed of.

44. All bills, and all votes and resolutions that are necessary to be carried to the senate for their concurrence, may be sent by the assistant clerk.

OF THE COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE HOUSE.

45. The house may resolve itself into committee of the whole house at any time, on the motion of a member made for that purpose; and in forming a committee of the whole house, the speaker shall leave the chair, and a chairman to preside in committee shall be appointed by the speaker.

46. Upon bills and resolutions committed to a committee of the whole house, the bill or resolution shall first be read throughout, by the clerk, and then again read and debated by clauses, leaving the preamble of the bill to be last considered; the body of the bill or resolution shall not be defaced or interlined, but all amendments, noting the page and line, shall be duly entered by the clerk on a separate paper, as the same shall be agreed to by the committee, and so reported to the house. After report, the bill or resolution shall again be subject to be debated and amended by clauses, before a question to pass it to a third reading be taken.

47. The rules of proceeding in the house shall be observed in committee of the whole house, so far as they may be applicable, except the rule limiting the time of speaking.

48. No standing rule or order of the house shall be rescinded without one day's notice being given of the motion therefor; nor suspended, unless by a vote therefor of two-thirds of the members present, to be ascertained by actual count, when any member shall request the same.

ORDER OF BUSINESS OF THE DAY.

49. As soon as the journal is read, the speaker shall call for petitions from members of the house. The petitions having been presented and disposed of, reports, first from the standing, and then from the select committees, shall be called for and disposed of. And the above business shall be done in no other part of the day, except by permission of the house.

50. The unfinished business in which the house was engaged at the last preceding adjournment, if called for by any member, shall have the preference over all other business except the general order of the day; and no motion, or any other business, except the general order of the day, shall be received without special leave of the house, until the former is disposed of.
